Programme Overview

The ETH Liberty Road Volatility Trading strategy utilises world-class quantitative methods to map a live volatility surface. A proprietary Artificial Intelligence program analyses the volatility surface and maximises or minimises the risk premium obtained by selling and buying puts and calls at the peaks and troughs on the volatility surface.

The algorithm analyses both the absolute risk premium compared to historical parameters but also evaluates mispricing opportunities on the volatility surface. Strikes and maturity are laddered to minimise concentration. The AI Machine Learning algorithm incorporates various factors to determine a "probability of success" for each trade therefore, the absolute level of risk premium is not deterministic.

Strategy

The strategy is managed with a Leverage limit of 6 and Extreme Value at Risk (EVAR) of a daily 10% limit to two Standard Deviations. Live volatility surfaces on separate and combined exchanges are evaluated, and an AI Machine Learning program continually monitors the surface for the next successful trade based on a multi-factor model.

The algorithm evaluates the medium-term trend using a combination of fundamental blockchain analysis and technical indicators. The strategy is directional. Long puts and calls are utilised based on risk premium and mispricing analysis. The portfolio is monitored 24 hours a day 7 days a week, and trades are always evaluated and executed by an experienced portfolio manager.
